As Turkey Sees Us.
Phoenicians in America.
Bite Off Twelve Grapes.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright 1929, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

MODERN science tells you that matter, in motion, gains weight.
The Turkish newspaper, Akoham, describes, sympathetically, results of our recent earthquake in Wall street.

"Former American millionaires are now eating bread, cheese and cabbage," says the editor.

SOME American millionaires would gain in health and grace if they adopted that diet, without adding bootleg mixtures to it.
Akoham's "news" from America is not more inaccurate than some of our news from Turkey, and far less inaccurate than the average American idea of the Turkish people.

Much power in the Turks, great self-respect, and a high sense of honor.

INSCRIPTIONS found on rocks in the valley of the Amazon revive the belief that the seafaring Phoenicians from the far end of the Mediterranean discovered America long before Columbus and the earlier Liep Ericson. Archeologists think the Phoenicians went up the great Amazon with their ships and founded a South American city 4,000 years ago.

SOMEONE should write a good history of those Phoenicians with their restless longing for navigation, so unlike the other non-Semitic tribes. First of all men, they sailed out of sight of land with only the stars, no compass, to guide them. They first sailed past the Rock of Gibraltar into the Atlantic to mine tin with slaves in the British islands.

The brought wealth from every port, by trade or piracy, depending on the strength of the port.

NOW they are gone. Their rivers that ran back through the mountain gorges are silted up. Sand piles cover acres that were fertile. The cedars are gone from Mount Lebanon.

NEARLY two thousand years before Columbus was born, Alexander administered the final blow to the greatness of Phoenicia, which had already fallen under Persia's yoke.

Attacking Tyre, which offered submission but would not let him enter the city to sacrifice to the Tyrian god Hercules, he killed 3,000 Tyrians, sold 30,000 into slavery. And building Alexandria, he changed the channels of trade and struck a death blow at Phoenicia's commercial greatness.

NAVAL PARLEY DELEGATES GET INSTRUCTIONS

American Representatives at White House Breakfast.

PRESIDENT TALKS U. S. Party to Sail For London on Thursday.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES, International News Service Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—American delegates to the London naval conference and the technical experts, upon whose advice they must to a great extent inevitably, received their final instructions today from President Hoover.

The president had the delegates and "the admirals" to breakfast with him at the White House this morning, and for more than an hour there was frank discussion of the situation which they will meet in London, and American policies in relation thereto.

Mr. Hoover himself did most of the talking, and it is understood he laid down no hard and fast rules to govern the conduct of the negotiations. Rather, the president sketched in broad outline the world naval situation and its relation to the continued peace of the world, and spoke of America's duty in contributing to the undertaking.

It was the last meeting between Mr. Hoover and the delegates prior to their departure. Secretary of State Stimson leaves Washington this afternoon not to return until he comes home from London. The other delegates and advisers will leave here Thursday morning, and all will sail on the S. S. George Washington from New York the same afternoon.

VALLEY OF DEATH, ONCE FEARED SPOT, BECOMES WINTER RESORT

Trip Into Desert Waste, Formerly an Adventure, Made Comfortably Now by Auto.

LOS ANGELES — As recently as three or four years ago a trip to Death Valley constituted a rugged adventure, and comparatively few motorists visited the gigantic backdoor wonderland because roads into the region were not inviting. Three years ago winter resorts invaded the valley. Road improvements were undertaken. Two years ago one could motor to Death Valley in fair comfort and enjoy good accommodations. One year ago the accommodations had progressed to the status of excellent, with corresponding progress in the condition of the main road. This winter ease of travel, as respects the main route to Death Valley, is pronounced, while the accommodations are all that any travelers could possibly desire. Nor have the operators of this modern desert caravansary overlooked the fact that the delightful desert air has a way of building up healthy appetites, especially if more!

one motors and hikes about visiting the nearby points of interest. Death Valley, despite its sinister name, was never one-half as barren as painted. The ill-fated party of 1849-50 that bestowed upon it the name Valley of Death did not perish from thirst, but from starvation and exposure. There have been lesser tragedies since, when the fierce rays of the summer sun and the lack of fresh water took their toll of human life, but in this respect Death Valley can hardly be considered worse than any other desert regions. The fact that a great part of the valley lies below sea level has added color to the story of Death Valley. Geologically, Death Valley is of tremendous interest. The vast salt beds known as the "Devil's Golf Course" offer amazing evidence of the patient handiwork of nature, and a visit to the salt pools where one may break off great pieces of pure white crystals at the point of present-day formation is a never-to-be-forgotten novelty. Salt marshes, hard flinty salt beds, vast stretches of rock and gravel, lava, cinder cones, gigantic alluvial fans extending from the mouths of precipitous canyons to the floor of the valley, treacherous silt and shifting sand dunes, desert air has a way of building up healthy appetites, especially if more!

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should know about Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour-clothing, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colic, children's diseases. A teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Fashion revels in the soft, enchanting curves of the modern figure. Don't sacrifice that graceful contour by permitting your eyes to be bigger than your stomach. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately. When tempted to treat yourself too well, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, light a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain the modern, alluringly-rounded figure.

"It's toasted"

*Be Moderate!... Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

How They Grew Thin

You will be surprised, if you look around at how many people have grown thin in late years. It is evident that some new method has come into very wide use. It has been found that a weak gland is a great cause of obesity. So modern physicians have been fighting that cause, without starvation diets.

This right method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. Now in almost every circle the delightful results are apparent. A book in each box of Marmola tells you how and why it acts. The formula is given. Go try this remarkable, this natural means. Ask your druggist today for a $1 box of Marmola. Women In Government

The emancipation of woman is complete as far as government in the United States is concerned. The Hoover administration has taken a particularly kind attitude toward the trend of modern feminism that is sweeping women into positions of responsibility in industry and politics. Women have been allowed to compete with men for high-salaried posts in governmental service and special emphasis has been placed upon the fact that merit alone has led to their selection and retention.

President Hoover is avowedly searching for brains and the ability to apply them. Since it has long been a matter of common knowledge in the classroom that feminine brains are equal to masculine brains, it is a wise policy to let down the sex bars and admit some of this talent to the great field of governmental service.

This attitude is also apparent in the appointments made by the president's aides. Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior, especially, has found the type of intelligence he sought in abundance among women.

Among the eminent women enjoying the confidence of the administration and, to all appearances, justifying it with unusual service are Miss Bess Goodykoontz, writer and lecturer, who is assistant commissioner of education, and Miss Mary Stewart, writer and educator, who is assistant director of education and employment in the Indian bureau. Other women are filling such important positions as chief of the appointing division of the department of the interior, chief of the bureau of home economics in the department of agriculture, and members of the civil service commission. The value of women as secretaries to high officials and department heads has long been recognized.

Women in federal government are still scarce compared to the number of women who have acquitted themselves well in state and local government. It was in these smaller fields that women first proved themselves capable of performing executive work.

"The feminine touch" has been a very important factor in the world's liveableness since the beginning of time and it is only to be expected that women would be recognized as valuable members of the personnel of a self-governing state.

The French chamber of deputies has refused to raise the pay of the republic's soldiers from twenty-five to fifty centimes a day, possibly figuring that pay of two cents a day might easily lead to riotous expenditures on the part of French soldiery.

New York club women are flaying the long skirt and the French dress designers for trying to force it upon them. We take it that the aroused members are women of fine understandings.

To Visit Graves of Loved Ones

Approximately 7,000 gold star mothers and widows of the World War soldiers buried in American cemeteries in Europe will be the guests of the government next summer on pilgrimages to the graves of their loved ones.

Under the congressional act last March, 11,440 mothers and widows are entitled to make the pilgrimage. Half of them have expressed a desire to make the trip the coming summer and the remainder the summer following.

The trips have been arranged for times most favorable for the ease and comfort of the travelers, mothers and widows from any states who are to visit the same cemetery to be grouped for the entire trip. Each guest of the government will be provided with transportation and funds to cover her expenses en route to New York, where there will be a stay of a couple of days. Similar arrangements will be made on her return trip from New York to her home.

Major General B. F. Cheatham, quartermaster general of the army and in charge of the pilgrimage, has announced that hotel and other accommodations, including meals at all European points where the tourists may stop abroad will be provided by the government, as well as train or automobile transportation. Even such incidentals as custom fees, tips, medical attention and laundry will be provided, and there will be interpreters and guides supplied from the regular army.

There is an old saying to the effect that what is worth doing is worth doing well. It is good to know that the government had this in mind in arranging for the care and comfort of the gold star mothers and widows of our honored dead. It is a splendid demonstration of the feeling of the government for the sacrifice of the lives of those they hold dear.

A former cabaret girl has sued a Chicago business man, who, she alleges, has provided her with an apartment and paid her $500 a month for the last twelve years, for $250,000 for breach of promise, alleging that he promised to divorce his wife and marry her. In the face of the fact that she has delayed instituting suit for twelve years, she can hardly be held to have been unduly impatient.

A former circus clown died out in Missouri at the age of 99. "Be serious, young man, be serious," is an oft-quoted admonition, but following it never added any years to a man's life.

Teasing

One of the problems parents have to face is the presence of a bully or an inveterate tease in a crowd of children. He is always certain to spread discord and create discontent in those about him and his introduction into a happy group gets immediate results.

The January issue of Child Study sheds light on this constantly recurring problem. It is devoted to a discussion of teasing in its various manifestations. Every one knows what teasing is and every one knows why it affords pleasure. Nevertheless, the investigators met with great difficulty in defining the work and there is a startling lack of scientific data on the subject.

Going back to childhood's own method of definition they have attempted to tell what teasing is by describing what it is done for. The child defines a ball as "something to throw," the knife as "something to cut with." So the experts say that teasing is "something to get a rise with." They admit the inadequacy of the definition, but it gives them a start.

Teasing may begin and end with play like the cavortings of a pair of kittens pretending with every atom of energy in their small bodies that they are going to put an end to each other. Or it may begin with play and end, after some unintentional injury, in a real fight with tears and a retreat. It may make the child who glories in the prominence which the attention gives him very happy; it may make the sensitive, bashful child, extremely unhappy.

Opinion as to the harm from teasing is divided. Some of the teachers and parents questioned considered it a serious problem. Others regarded it as a valuable factor in a child's "informal education."

It is the latter only when it is done with no ulterior motives. Harmful teasing is that which is done under the guise of playful pretense to work off irritation. It is the kind that never stops at the right time, but always continues until the victim either turns on his aggressor or retreats with his feelings hurt and his malice aroused. Teasing is essentially a fun-making activity and when it surpasses the bounds of congeniality, it should never be tolerated.

A Brand New Idea

Psychologists conducting investigations among the students at the University of Iowa have discovered, after long travail, something that everyone knew or guessed a long time ago. The brightest students tend to be radical—as long as they are young. Card catalogues, filing clerks, questionnaires and a lot of industrious theory have gone into the making of a discovery that old-fashioned laymen have been suspecting for a long time to be true. The old gentlemen and the middle-aged who sat upon the court that condemned to death for corrupting youth were alarmed because the young bloods of Athens had radical ideas about the gods, about virtue, about justice, about wisdom. The caveman must have viewed with alarm the radical tendencies current among the brighter of the cave youths. There must have been Phi Beta Kappa boys among the anthropoid apes whose dissatisfaction with the parental ways caused the elders uneasiness. It required no corps of investigators to verify the obvious fact that in youth intelligence and skepticism go hand in hand. Likewise it requires no bureau of statistics to confirm the suspicion that the skepticism, for better or worse, grows dimmer with advancing age.

One is inclined to doubt the intellectual alertness of an eighteen-year-old student who is the quiescent receiver of the established order in morals, religion, art, government, human relations. Every thinking person is, at eighteen, a member of the radical Left Wing. One is inclined, likewise, to doubt the maturity of any middle-aged man whose whole point of view is "against" the established in whatever guise it offers itself. It is a comfort to have trained psychological observation confirm the experience of thousands of years. It really would be news if it were discovered that the bright sophomore was reactionary, or that at 40, in everything from philosophy to government he saw red. Meanwhile it is always reassuring to have the scientists burst into print with the brilliant discovery that it is wet when it rains and that two and two do not make five.

THE MAGICIAN

New York Day By Day

By O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The dog having his advertised "day" in New York. Fifteen years ago the most highly pedigreed pooch was banned in aristocratic hotels and apartment houses.

Today the more exclusive the place, the easier it is for the dog owner.

The dog, if not too large, is welcomed in many smart cafes and permitted to lie under the tables. If oversized, a special checking room is provided. A half dozen night clubs have also rescinded the order barring them. Yet why a dog should be taken to a night club is a little puzzling.

This sort of freedom for dogs is largely continental. Over there the dog is as welcome everywhere as his master, and European travelers bringing pets to America began to avoid hotels that refused admittance. This personage, including notables, was too valuable to be ignored.

In the beginning, canines were "bootlegged" into hotels, kept out of sight and forced to use service elevators. Today they trot through lobbies and ride in passenger elevators. Some hotels make a modest per diem charge, but that is all.

Several hotels have whitelisted notified roof kennels for dogs too large to be kept in rooms or suites. Here they are not only in charge of expert dog men but a staff veterinarian is retained to see that proper medical attention is provided. Dog owners are showing their appreciation of such privileges.

The management of three hotels, where the rule against dogs was lifted, in response to telephone inquiry said they had not received a single complaint from patrons. "More damage," said one, "is done by a single cocktail party in one day than by all the dogs in our house in a year."

The do-luxe steamships now permit small, well behaved dogs in cabins, although they are not permitted on the promenade deck or in the assembly rooms, save the bar. Big department stores have attendants to care for dogs while owners are shopping.

For market loss whiners: A one-legged push cart vender of oranges and bananas along Sixth avenue is the owner of a valuable three-story apartment house in the Flatbush section of Brooklyn. He is 52, stone deaf, a bachelor and his biggest income for one week was $24.

For many years I have been a casual patron of Lindy's the little Broadway cafe where Arnold Rothstein was called to his death. It is interesting not only because of its food but because of its clientele—song writers, booking agents, race track tipsters, writers, professional loafers, and theatrical folk. One over-hears much frivolous gossip of the town there and sees many figures of the sporting world. The only place like it was the old Coney Island bar, southward. Lindy himself is an interesting character. Beginning as a waiter, he has amassed a fortune. While he regrets the nationwide publicity that resulted because Rothstein happened to be dining there on the fatal night, he admits it brought curiosity seekers from all over the world.

Among addresses on envelopes of mail delivered today were: "Day-by-Day Writer," "One of the columnists," "A fellow who thinks he's smart," "Somewhere in the Big City," and "The Spatiacian." It is all right with me, of course, but I should think it would make postal searchers pretty mad.

It seems to me there is nothing more pathetic than those ladies, so long known as "the life of the party," who begin to realize they have become bores.

And my idea of the super-optimist is the fellow who just telegraphed he expects to receive my check for $500 by return mail for a tenth interest in his new play.

How To Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

MENTAL poise is the normal condition of the mind. It follows that mental discord is an abnormal condition of the mind.

If you would have mental harmony, you must exclude all wrong thoughts. Each of us make a determined effort to overcome all bad mental habits.

There is not a shadow of a doubt that worry is one of the chief causes of ill health. There is no end to the disturbances in the human system that are caused by worrying over this thing and that. Also, jealousy, fear, hatred, despondency, grief and all similar emotions are due to bad thoughts. They have a devastating effect on the system.

Mental discord wastes nerve energy. It wastes it as physical over-exertion does. It may result in a real disturbance of the digestion, or of the important glands of secretion. The effects are bound to be felt in every cell of the body.

The functioning of the body is dependent upon the degree of energy we possess. These emotions of ours not only use up nerve energy, but they create conditions which was permit the development of poisonous substances in the body. The effect of these may be to produce disease.

When you permit yourself to enjoy fully the right food under the right conditions, you enable the stomach and the glands which supply the digestive fluids to function properly. You have the nerve energy to complete digestion. If you are in the wrong frame of mind at mealtime, your body is in a wrong condition to function properly.

Even though the meal is a simple one, it should be eaten in an atmosphere of harmony and peace. There can be no doubt of this.

For the sake of your happiness and good health it is well to have a real purpose in your everyday life. There should be a definite, constructive purpose for each day. This will prevent aimless thoughts and give you a better outlook on life. Vigorous mental habits tending to wholesome thoughts, do much to maintain good health.

We know the power of the mind to depress the spirits and slow the heart. Bad news makes "the heart stand still." The opposite is true—good news, happiness, contentment and enthusiasm stimulate the heart. The thought has a remarkable effect on the body. We are well off only when the mind is working normally and happily.

When you establish faith in something or somebody you are setting up a right train of thought. Faith removes fear, it removes worry and many other mental disorders. Each of us has to develop habits of mental poise. We must have mental harmony if we are to maintain good health.

The Reviewing Stand

By TOM T. JONES

THOUGHTS while wandering about the town: Do postal clerks ever send postcards? Do butchers get more liver now that it is regarded as of superior food value? Which box of candy of all those exhibited to view do dealers in sweets select for their own family use? What kind of a sermon do ministers themselves best like to hear? What happens to all of the Christmas goods that are not sold by Yuletide? How many Christmas trees now so brilliantly lighted and adorned will be lying discarded in alleys and gutters a week hence? After all is there record of anyone, ever upon his own motion, succeeding in giving the recipient of his gift that which he for she really wanted at the moment? Has the present generation ever tasted the old-fashioned such household candy? Will Santa Claus be negatively affected by seeing above hearths an array of feminine silk stockings when memory suggests several masculine woolen socks should be where they used to hang? Will anyone really substitute salt mackerel and boiled potatoes for turkey and dressing as his Yuletide repast?

BUFFALO meat that came to East Liverpool during the holiday season had the effect in some instances of causing wives to aver that they would not prepare such wild animal food. Some husbands simply took home some "steak" for the evening repast. After all had generously partaken a few Indian yells by some of the children "in the know" served others to catch on that the piece de resistance had been the tabooed buffalo. Of course the head of the family, "Jiggs-like," managed to dodge any and all rolling pins that came in his direction from the good wife. And since after all the meat was really better than much of the steak that may have been recently eaten peace was quickly restored, and, as formerly, such proceeded to live happily ever afterwards.

THE name, "Warren O. Harding," signed to "Your Pastor's Message" in the weekly viewpoints that he gives his congregation serves to suggest the close similarity between his name and that of "Warren G. Harding" when signed governmental documents are viewed. Both have 14 letters to their names. Only the G. that begins the former president's second name and "rd" and "g" again in the last name being substituted for "wk" and "s" makes for any difference whatsoever between the cognomen of the local Methodist minister and the one-time occupant of the White House.

DEER that evidently came into the section from Pennsylvania were seen, it is declared, just over the line in Columbiana county during the recent hunting season, now closed. In some instances one or two deer reached spots in middle Ohio and were traceable to wanderings from the Keystone state. It is also said that deer wandered almost into the city limits of Beaver, Pa., during the hunting interim. The Ohio laws do not permit their killing at all, it is said, while those of Pennsylvania do not allow their extermination while within the city limits, during the period when their hunting is allowed.

THOUGH he was invited to come to Pennsylvania and engage in the hunting of deer by friends during the hunting season, Assistant Postmaster George Welch did not avail himself of the privilege. He felt that because the number specified to be procured in this manner was so small that it hardly behooved one from another state to go into the commonwealth and lessen the chances that residents of the state had for pursuing the pastime which he considered was distinctly theirs for the time being.

MEN, all husky specimens of physique, who are engaged in laying the underground lines for telephone purposes, threw down their tools on the evening of December 31 a bit differently than usual. Somehow there was a realization in it all that not only was a day's work being completed but that labor covering a cycle of an entire year had just been turned in.

Pedestrians passing along Avondale street where many of them at the moment were pushing wheelbarrows, seemed to sense a more than ordinary cessation of a single interim of working activity. They were quitting work on the evening of one year to come back on the morning of another.

WILLIAM MACDONALD, director of music at the First Presbyterian church here and also of a 100-voice chorus of a Pittsburgh department store that recently broadcast Christmas carols to Commander Richard Byrd in his camp near the South Pole and to leading cities in Europe also, is a great admirer of David Lloyd George, former British premier.

A native of Wales though his own father was a Scotchman, he never saw the Welsh statesman until the latter a few years ago visited America. Then he stopped several hours one morning in Marion, Ohio, to visit the tomb of Warren G. Harding. At that time Macdonald was a resident of that city. Accordingly he was among the most enthusiastic of those who heard the fiery commoner on that occasion. Just now in further regard for his one-time countryman he is reading the latest biography of Lloyd George which another member of parliament, a Mr. Edwards, has written of him. It is an ambitious departure of two volumes.

Mr. Macdonald before his residence in East Liverpool, lived for a period immediately after the passing of Mr. Harding in Marion. Later he was for a time a resident of Canton, Ohio. Thus, in his pilgrimages in this country he has had the unusual record of living in the two Ohio cities where lies buried two recent presidents.

A CONVERSATION upon the floor of the Travelers' hotel drew out the information that a concoction of edible meat was called "Fagots" and that to many it was regarded as a delicacy. It seems to be one made up of the lights, liver and certain entrails of a hog that is all ground up mixed with sage, onions and perhaps some additional condiments. When properly prepared it is described as most appealing to the palate but there should not be too close in quite made as to its several basic parts.

Description of its preparation rather tends to recall a remark of the late Senator David B. Hill, of New York who, returning from a national convention of his party where the standard bearers for the campaign had been named replied to an interrogation as to how the nomination had been consummated, averred: "Presidential nominations are like sausage making. The least said about them the better."

ROBERT MACELRAVY, who is for the moment directing the laying of the curbing on Jennings avenue, Perry street and other thoroughfares upon the North side, has exchanged vests for some 15 years past both winter and summer. He garbs himself in gum and leather coats and heavy shirts for the rigorous weather which he and his men face at times in the open. But no vests! These latter he holds as to be burdensome. And the Salvation Army and other organizations are the better for his aversion of them.

Bishop Murder Case

Philo Vance Story of Mystery and Crime.

By S. S. VAN DINE

CHAPTER SIX.

WHAT would be your solution, Arnesson? Markham knew and respected the man's intelligence, and seemed at once to sense a serious purpose beneath his attitude of sneering flippancy. "Ah! As yet I haven't tackled the equation," Arnesson drew out an old briar pipe and fingered it affectionately. "But I've always wanted to do a little detective work on a purely earthly plane—the insatiable curiosity and natural inquisitiveness of the physicist, you understand. And I've long had a theory that the science of mathematics can be advantageously applied to the trivialities of our life on this unimportant planet. There's nothing but law in the universe—unless Eddington is right and there's no law at all—and I see no sufficient reason why the identity and position of a criminal can't be determined just as Leverrier calculated the mass and ephemeris of Neptune from the observed deviations in the orbit of Uranus. You remember how, after his computations, he told Galle, the Berlin astronomer, to look for the planet in a specified longitude of the ecliptic."

Arnesson paused and filled his pipe. "Now, Mr. Markham," he went on; and I tried to decide whether or not the man was in earnest, "I'd like the opportunity of applying to this absurd muddle the purely rational means used by Leverrier in discovering Neptune. But I've got to have the data on the perturbations of Uranus's orbit, so to speak—that is, I must know all the varying factors in the equation. The favor I've come here to ask is that you take me into your confidence and tell me all the facts. A sort of intellectual partnership. I'll figure out this problem for you along scientific lines. It'll be a bully sport; and incidentally I'd like to prove my theory that mathematics is the basis of all truth, however far removed from scholastic abstractions." He at last got his pipe going, and sank back in his chair. "Is it a bargain?"

"I'll be glad to tell you what ever we know, Arnesson," Markham replied after a brief pause. "But I can't promise to reveal everything that may arise from now on. It might work against the ends of justice and embarrass our investigation."

Vance had sat with half-closed eyes, apparently bored by Arnesson's astonishing request; but now he turned to Markham with a considerable show of animation. "I say, y' know; there's really no reason why we shouldn't give Mr. Arnesson a chance to translate this crime into the realm of applied mathematics. I'm sure he'd be discreet and use our information only for scientific purposes. And one never knows, does one?—we may need his highly trained assistance before we're through with this fascinatin' affair."

Markham knew Vance well enough to realize that his suggestion had not been made thoughtlessly, and I was in no wise astonished when he faced Arnesson and said: "Very well, then. We'll give you whatever data you need to work out your mathematical formula. Anything special you want to know now?"

"Oh, no. I know the details thus far as well as you; and I'll strip Beedle and old Pyne of their contributions when you're gone. But if I solve this problem and determine the exact position of the criminal, don't pigeon-hole my findings as Sir George Airy did those of poor Adams when he submitted his Neptunian calculations prior to Leverrier's."

At this moment the front door opened, and the uniformed officer stationed on the porch came in, followed by a stranger.

"This gent here says he wants to see the professor," he announced with radiating suspicion; and turning to the man he indicated Markham with a gesture of the head. "That's the District Attorney, tell him your troubles."

The Story Thus Far: A man known as Cock Robin is shot through the heart with an arrow. The body is found on the archery range beside the home of Professor Dillard, where Robin was well known. The crime seems to be the intentional dramatization of the old nursery rhyme, "Who killed Cock Robin?" District Attorney Markham is puzzled by the apparently senseless circumstances attending it and asks the aid of Philo Vance, wealthy young bachelor who dabbles in the solving of unusual mysteries. The police get on the trail of Sperling, the last man known to have been with Robin. Vance, in questioning

Professor Dillard and his niece, Belle Dillard, learns that both Robin and Sperling were in love with the girl and had been arguing over her just before Robin's death. While Vance is questioning her, Signard Arnesson, a protégé of Professor Dillard's and also a professor of mathematics, comes in. Arnesson is a cynical brilliant man who jokes heartlessly about the murder.

Vance learns practically nothing from the Dillard household, but Pyne, the butler, seems very much confused when questioned as to his whereabouts the morning of the murder. Then Pardee, a neighbor and acquaintance of the Dillard's, arrives on the scene.

CHAPTER 7.

The newcomer seemed somewhat embarrassed. He was a slender, well-groomed man with an unmistakable air of refinement. His age, I should say, was fifty, though his face held a perennially youthful look. His hair was thin and gray, his nose a trifle sharp, and his chin small but in no way weak. His eyes, surmounted by a high broad forehead, were his most striking characteristic. They were the eyes of a disappointed and disillusioned dreamer—half sad, half resentful, as if life had tricked him and left him unhappy and bitter.

He was about to address Markham when he caught sight of Arnesson. "Oh, good morning, Arnesson," he said, in a quiet, well-modulated voice. "I hope there's nothing seriously wrong."

"A mere death, Pardee," the other replied carelessly. "The proverbial tempest in a teapot." Markham was annoyed at the interruption. "What can I do for you, sir?" he asked.

"I trust I am not intruding," the man apologized. "I am a friend of the family, I live just across the street; and I perceived that something unusual had happened here. It occurred to me I might be of some service."

Arnesson chuckled. "My dear Pardee! Why clothe your natural curiosity in the habiliments of rhetoric?" Pardee blushed. "I assure you, Arnesson—" he began; but Vance interrupted him. (Copyright, 1929, by Charles Scribner's Sons) (To Be Continued)

BUILDING PLAN IS UNDER WAY

Employment Promised In Nation-wide Program.

By International News Service. WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Contractors and building trades employers were looking forward today to an enormous nation-wide construction program for the year 1930.

Under the stimulus of President Hoover's December conferences, there has been a general increase in federal, state, county, municipal and private budgets. A survey being made by the department of commerce, although not yet half completed, already has developed a total of $4,700,000,000, and this does not include strictly private enterprises such as factory improvement and the erection of homes.

The commerce survey, made public by Mr. Hoover, includes complete reports from 16 states and partial returns from an additional 13. The projects thus far tabulated in this respect amount to $1,550,000,000, and embrace the federal public works contemplated therein.

Railways have advised the government they intend to outlay $1,050,000,000 for additions and improvements.

Public utilities, including the telephone company, have worked out a 1930 budget totaling $2,100,000,000.

"Our drive for increase in construction and improvement work to take up unemployment is showing most encouraging results," commented the president, "and it looks as if the work undertaken will be larger for 1930 than for 1929."

Short-Time Hubby Avers Bride Demanded She Be Taken To Her Mother's Home.

By International News Service. FLINT, Mich.—A short duration marriage record was established recently when Theodore Evans 26, applied for a divorce from his wife 24 hours after he had married her. Evans was married to Jessie Fry, 23, of Otisville on Christmas Day. Less than 24 hours later his suit for divorce was on file in circuit court.

"Most extreme, repeated and wanton cruelty," is charged by Evans. He claims that his bride insisted on being taken to her mother's home immediately after the wedding ceremony. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Frank W. Field of the Oak Park Methodist Episcopal church here.

STUTZ SUIT IS DISMISSED

Petition For Receivership Also to be Thrown Out.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 7.—United States District Judge Robert C. Baltzell today had dismissed a petition in involuntary bankruptcy against the Stutz Motor Car Company of America, Inc. Three Indianapolis creditors filed the petition several days ago.

Counsel for the petitioning creditors joined attorneys for the Stutz company in requesting that the action be dismissed in federal court. E. C. Gorrell, president of the automobile organization, said he had been assured that the suit for the appointment of a receiver filed in a state court also will be dismissed immediately. An intervening suit, he said, also will be dismissed.

"We are assured that all the other suits which have been filed in the state courts also will be dismissed immediately," Mr. Gorrell said, "and the company, with the cooperation of all its creditors, whose cooperation has been assured, will proceed with its financial reorganization and expects to enjoy the best year's business in its history."

Mr. Gorrell several days ago declared the petitions had interrupted negotiations for a merger with another prominent automobile concern.

CONAN DOYLE STORY WINNER

Readers of Sir A. Conan Doyle's famous Sherlock Holmes tales remember the character of the arch-criminal, Moriarty, in whose pursuit the master detective did some of his most difficult sleuthing.

The great detective and the elusive criminal meet in "The Return of Sherlock Holmes," the all-talking feature now at the Ceramic theater.

Clive Brook, is cast in the role of the master man-hunter, and Harry T. Morey impersonates Moriarty. In the film version of "The Return of Sherlock Holmes" much of the dramatic action occurs aboard a trans-Atlantic liner and the two—Sherlock Holmes and Moriarty—come face to face in the narrow confines of a ship's cabin, ending a pursuit covering twenty years and most of the globe.

The final scenes in the picture were actually made on a giant liner coming into New York, and the famous skyline is very prominent in the background. The entire company boarded the giant liner at quarantine and the scenes were filmed as the liner steamed into port.

HUBBY VILLIAN IN SCREEN HIT

Husbands are liable to be the villains of drama now-a-days. There's an extra likeable one in the person of Sidney Blackmer, Broadway stage favorite, now at the State in First National's "A Most Immoral Lady."

Leatrice Joy is featured in the role of this elaborate and entertaining screen version of the sensational stage play by Townsend Martin. Walter Pidgeon plays opposite her, and, as hero, wins her from the villain-husband, Josephine Dunn, a beautiful blonde baby vamp, first wins Pidgeon, however. And then she loses him. They all start in high society in New York and Palm Beach, then repair to gay Paree, Montagu Love and Donald Reed are among the other favorites in the cast of "A Most Immoral Lady."

GENUINE THRILL IN "DISRAELI"

A masterpiece of a picture struck town last night and gave a first night audience a genuine thrill. "Disraeli," the Warner Bros. and Vitaphone production starring George Arliss, at the American theater is an honest to goodness show. Its absorbing story is acted by one of the finest casts seen here in years. The distinction of George Arliss in the title role is something that will linger in the memory long after a legion of ordinary pictures have come and passed into oblivion.

The part of "Disraeli" gives Arliss the proverbial glow. One is startled time and again by the uncanny resemblance between the actor and the statesman who became the English prime minister and acquired for his country the Suez canal and the power that went with it. A variety of cunning tricks are in the Arliss bag. Disraeli was a many faceted personality who achieved his ends eth-

SMALLPOX HITS OHIO VILLAGE

North Lewisburg in Throes of Scare; Many Ill.

By International News Service. URBANA, O., Jan. 7.—North Lewisburg, a small village in northern Champaign county, is in the throes of a smallpox scare today.

Several cases have been reported and precautions have been taken against the spread of the disease. However, it has not reached epidemic proportions and is not believed to be serious. Dr. L. A. Woodburn, of the county health department, has ordered the discontinuance of public meetings in the village. The ban will prevent the basketball team of North Lewisburg high school from playing for a month, as that was the time set by Woodburn's order.

So successful was the world jamboree of the Boy Scouts at Liverpool, England, last summer that there was a surplus of nearly $50,000 for the association.

J. H. GRAFTON NINE BALLOTS SHORT IN POLL

Republican is Declared Victor in Second Ward.

HIS THIRD TERM

Final Tabulation Shows: Peters, 255; Grafton, 246.

WELLSVILLE—Charles S. Peters, Republican, was declared a winner in the Second ward fight last night when a recount of the ballots cast in the November election was made by the city council. The canvass gave him a nine-vote victory over John H. Grafton, Democrat, who on the face of the official returns was elected by one vote. The recount was: Peters, 255; Grafton, 246.

Peters, who has served four years in council, will qualify for his third term tonight.

Crowd Watches Count
The count was made under the direction of council, with each principal having two outside representatives.

Long before the hour of the meeting the council chambers were crowded and many additional chairs were placed in the room. The actual re-checking of the ballots were made by Service-Safety Director George B. Imbrie and Attorney James M. McSweeney, representing Peters, and Howard T. Weaver and Harry J. Kampmann, representing Grafton.

J. S. Hilbert, chief deputy of the Columbiana county board of elections, and J. W. Moore, clerk of the board, who delivered the ballots, "listened in."

Count By Precincts.
The revised count in Precinct A was: Peters, 121; Grafton, 80. This was a gain of four for Peters and a loss of one for Grafton.

In Precinct B the figures were: Peters, 131; Grafton, 161, a loss of six for Grafton over the original count. Five ballots were disputed in Precinct A, and six in Precinct B, which were divided as follows: Grafton, 5; Peters, 3. Three were thrown out.

Injunction Denied.
When the result was announced by the clerk of council, Grafton, who has been occupying the seat since the special meeting last Thursday night, congratulated Peters.

The count was made after Judge W. F. Lones in common pleas court at Lisbon, late yesterday afternoon, refused to grant an injunction sought by Grafton to halt the recount of the ballots. The jurist held he had no jurisdiction inasmuch as council is the sole judge of the qualifications of its own members.

Why Fat Men Stay Fat

"The trouble with me, and I guess this applies to 99% of the men who are putting on weight, I didn't have the energy or 'pep' to keep it off. Lost all interest in my healthy activity and just lazed around accumulating the old pounds until I got that 'Kruschen feeling'."

Start taking Kruschen Salts—that's the common-sense way to reduce—but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

This is what they do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape and fill you with a vigor and tireless energy you'd most forgotten existed.

As a result instead of planting yourself in an easy chair every free moment and letting flabby fat accumulate you feel an urge for activity that keeps you moving around doing the things you've always wanted to do and need to do to keep you in good condition.

Then watch the pounds slide off! Kruschen Salts are the up-to-date Fountain of Youth. Take one half teaspoonful in a glass of hot or cold water tomorrow morning and every morning—and if they don't change your whole idea about reducing, go back and get the small price you paid for them. Get an 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts—lasts 4 weeks at Carnahan Drug Co. or any progressive druggist anywhere in the world.

It's the Little Daily Dose That Does It. —Adv.

OLD VILLAGES ARE UNCOVERED

But Berlin Government Lacks Funds With Which To Continue Its Excavating.

By International News Service. BERLIN.—If funds were available for excavations, Berlin would have in its vicinity an attraction vying with the famous Saalburg near Frankfurt-on-Main. This, at least, is the opinion of ethnologists. For the so-called "Roman bulwarks" at Neditz, near the capital, are believed to cover two ancient settlements—a Germanic settlement dating from about 1000 B. C. and a Slavic settlement from about 1000 A. D. But a half million marks would be required for the work and the sum is not available.

WORLD NEEDS REVIVAL, SAYS BOYCE PASTOR

Rev. E. C. Brooks In M. E. Church Pulpit.

QUOTES BIBLE Cites Signs Of Times In Sermon Monday.

"The great need of a world-wide revival is plainly evident," said the Rev. E. C. Brooks, pastor of the Boyce Methodist Episcopal church in the revival services in the church last night. The subject of his sermon was "Are Revivals Needed Today?"

"To those who take keen interest in the church and read the signs of the times the necessity of a revival which will sweep the whole earth is clear," he pointed out. "One sign that proves this is the vastly increased intelligence and marvelous scientific development which is a part of our civilization."

"The mania for education sometimes causes us to think that we know more than our fathers, and many dispute the teachings of the Bible with this new found knowledge."

"Another sign is the influence of the great facilities provided for pleasure seekers which lull the people into a forgetfulness of spiritual needs."

"A third sign is the ease with which we may slip out of our duties to mankind by hiring someone else to perform them. Christ claims our personal service, not the hired work of another person who was not placed here to do our tasks. A real revival would lead us to see that we each have a specific duty to perform for others, which must be done by us to be accomplished properly."

JURY DEBATES VALUE OF COW

Buyer Refuses To Pay For Her, Declaring She's A Big Failure As Producer.

By International News Service. LAJOPTE, Ind.—The reputation of a cow was at stake before a jury of twelve men in circuit court here.

Charges that the cow was not what she was represented to be were made by Harry Nelson, defendant, in the lawsuit in reply to a suit for $100 on a note brought by George Jasicki, a neighbor. Both live near Michigan City, Ind.

The jurors were told by Nelson that the cow turned out to be blind, somewhat lacking as to teeth and failed to give more than three gallons of milk a day.

Jasicki on the other hand sang the cow's praises and claimed she gave five gallons of milk a day when he owned her.

The court took the case under advisement.

"I wonder how he got by the London censor," said Chief Bunde, scanning a few breezy passages. "Now, I'd call those lines a trifle racy. But I guess this man Shakespeare is all right, after all. He knew everything and it's mighty interesting to read him."

NEWELL, ROGERS TEAMS CLASH HERE TONIGHT

Regulars Are Back On Squad

Girls Play Semi-final; Grade Quints in Opener.

WITH his varsity lineup intact for the first time this season, Coach Nate Lorah will pit his Newell high school passers against the Rogers quint tonight on the East Liverpool high school gymnasium court.

A series of three engagements make up the night's cage schedule. Newell and Rogers' girls' teams will play in the semi-final, while the McKinley grade school passers of this city will meet the Chester Junior high five in the curtain raiser.

The Newell varsity has been beset by injuries and scholastic difficulties during the season to date and at no time, declares Lorah, has he been able to show the full strength of the squad.

With the return of Smith to a forward position, however, the West Virginians are ready to go and expect to register a win against the visitors tonight.

Manson will be on the other forward; Kaufman at center; Laneve and Myler at the guards.

The first game is scheduled for 7 o'clock, the second for 8 and the third for 9.

The Newell passers are scheduled at Salineville on Friday and at Chester Saturday.

Muldoon Picks His Fighters

Looks Like Tuffy Griffiths Won't Get Look-in.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.
International News Service Editor.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The Miami heavyweight bout will face Phil Scott at Miami, Fla., on February 17 in a 10-round bout.

The agreement was reached after midnight and the formal contract was planned to be signed some time today.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Thanks to Mr. Muldoon, of the Muldoon-Turner, it seems that the heavy-weight championship business is to be conducted henceforth on the principle of the "closed shop," with admission being granted if you can show a personal letter from your pastor or they happen to like your haircut. If you can't or they don't, you are out like a man at lunch and the rest of them will ignore you in a very marked manner. You may be able to fight. What if it? You are declass, beyond the pale. Mr. Muldoon doesn't approve of you.

In this way and by such reasoning, Mr. Muldoon has been able to dictate the terms under which he would consent to receive a fortune at Miami. He says he is fighting henceforth only with those who have received the benediction of Mr. Muldoon, who is very anxious to get us a heavy-weight champion before the end of the summer and, in his anxiety, isn't especially particular whether this champion can lick the world. It seems that a defeat of Mr. Muldoon's own little private world is to be sufficient.

Consequently, the fact is without relative importance that Tuffy Griffiths has proved himself to be a first rate contender. He simply won't be allowed to contend.

Mr. Muldoon forgot to approve of him in the first place and it's too late to rectify the oversight now.

If they can afford to bar a man like Griffiths, who are the supermen who merit the August dispensation? One of them is arriving in America tomorrow aboard a boat from South America. He is Victorio Maria Campolo and nobody really knows whether he can fight or not. It isn't essential to know this. The oracle has spoken. Mr. Muldoon says Campolo will be champion in 1932, and of course this makes him a whale of a man in 1930.

Campolo is just a substitute hero, at that, the real survivors, largely by dint of a masterly inactivity, are Phil Scott, Max Schmeling and Sharkey himself. There can be no argument that the latter belongs Schmeling, too, deserves a final ranking, although his record isn't fool-proof and he has done nothing toward qualifying himself during the last six months.

But Scott? It was a laugh to include him in the tournament in the first place, after the way he had been kicked around by everybody abroad. It still is a laugh but somebody else will have to laugh it for me. My lip has a split infirmity.

Scott was loafing around London, a discredited fighter, last summer when Jimmy Johnston slipped him in as a joker on Schmeling and the latter promptly took a run out. He made as much capital as possible out of this fact and then managed to outstep the novice, Campolo, in ten rounds. Recently, he went a round and a fraction with Van Porat and then sank, groaning, upon the Axminster, where he lay as a suppliant, waiting to be counted out or awarded the fight on a foul. After George Kojac Charges High School Athletes Influenced in Choice Of College.

By International News Service.
NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Jan. 7.—Colleges and universities which deliberately attempt to subsidize high school athletic stars had been roundly scored today by George Kojac, Rutgers university swimming captain and Olympic back stroke champion.

Kojac, the outstanding school-boy swimmer in the country a few years ago, in a radio address charged faculty members, alumni, coaches and athletic directors with influencing high school athletes in their choice of a college by promising financial and classroom aid.

Kojac declared athletes should be told "selling their athletic ability will do more harm than good and chances of success are greater if they stand on their own feet."

Play Midland Ex-high Squad Wednesday In Y. M. C. A.

East Liverpool Nonpareils are expecting a torrid session when they tangle with the Midland Ex-Highs Wednesday night on the Y. M. C. A. court here.

The Midland squad is made up of individual stars who in the past have played with the Steel City high school squads and, together, constitute probably one of the best amateur teams in this section.

The Nonpareils include members of the 1927 class of the local high school. They have played together for three years. They lost their initial game of the season to the Sewickley Big "Y" five but won easily from Steve's Tydols here.

The Wednesday scuffle on the "Y" court is scheduled for 8:15 p. m.

Baseball Will Bar Shires If He Doesn't Clear His Name

"The Great" SHIRES

PUGNACIOUS BASEBALL STAR WHO HAS FOUND THE GOING RATHER ROUGH IN THE PRO RING!

JOIE RAY WAS GOING TO LEAVE THE TRACK FOR THE FIGHT GAME--A "GYM" WORKOUT CURED HIM!

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Unless Charles Arthur (The Great) Shires clears his name of charges that he engaged in one "fixed" professional boxing match and had attempted another, he may find himself barred forever from organized baseball.

The White Sox management, which has remained silent throughout the great one's invasion of the cauldron ranks, has made it clear it would not talk about a 1930 contract with the punch-slinging first baseman until he had gained a clean bill from the Michigan and Illinois State Athletic commissions, which are investigating charges against him.

"Shires must clean up those charges before the White Sox will be ready to discuss a contract with him," said Secretary Harry Grabner of the South Side club. "Too, he has to settle up his suspension which resulted from his last fist fight with former Manager Russell Blackburne last season. I have no date with Shires and have not seen him. When the time comes, we will be ready to handle the situation."

Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, has refused to discuss the Shires case beyond the intimation that he would have something to say if the charges against Shires were upheld by either the Michigan or Illinois State Athletic commissions. However, it is known that he is none too well pleased over the affair.

Meanwhile, Shires was ready to tell his side of the story before the commissions. He is slated to appear before the Illinois commission today in an attempt to prove that his first professional match with Dangerous Dan Daly of Cleveland was on the square. Daly said he took a "dive" for Shires because he feared he would be "taken for a ride" if he failed to yield to a demand for a "dive" which he said was made by Shires' representative.

Gen. John V. Clinin, chairman of the Illinois commission, has served Shires with a summons to appear before him this afternoon. Promoter Jim Mullen of Chicago, who conducted the Shires-Daly match, said he would insist that Daly make the charges before the commission in person.

Shires already is under the ban of the Michigan commission on a charge that a fake fight was attempted at Detroit between him and Battling Criss. The Michigan commission, however, has granted him a rehearing at Lansing Thursday.

Shires was in St. Paul last night, preparing for his fight there tonight. Friends said he would appear before the Illinois commission on time and then fly back to St. Paul to keep his engagement.

feuding the reputation he has already established here.

Tickets for the bouts have been placed on sale at the Frank Diamond clothing store. The promoters announced today that patrons may procure season reservations there. A number of these have already been laid away.

YANKEES SIGN 215-POUNDER

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Boxing having imported Primo Carnera, baseball today, or rather the New York Yankees, announced the acquisition of pitcher Asbeck, 6 feet 5½ inches in height, who weighs 215 pounds. Asbeck has had no professional experience.

Frank Laveque, 19-year old newcomer from the coast, has been signed by the Giants. He caught for a semi-pro outfit in Berkeley last year.

Dill left East Liverpool a number of years ago and since that time has been battling in various parts of the country, chiefly in the east, around New Jersey and in the south.

He claims to have been a member of the Striking stable prior to the Sharkey battle in Miami.

Dill has fought a number of 10-round main bouts in the south, his opponents including Harry Martone, Johnny Soward, Jack Rapaport and "Six-Second" Powell.

Martone and Rapaport were good fighters.

Dill is confident that he can lick Yarosz. The Monacan to date has been undefeated in his several appearances in the local district.

Yarosz will carry a reach advantage against Dill but the latter laughs at this.

"I've fought those kind of birds before," he scoffs. "You've got to take them as they come or you won't get any fights. You can't have 'em made to measure all the time."

As to weight, it is not likely that there will be much difference between them, both scaling near the 142-pound mark.

From all indications it is going to be a gruelling fight. Dill is anxious to make good before the home town fans and Yarosz will be de-

Prepares to Battle in St. Paul as Boxing Heads Probe "Diving" Charges.

By International News Service.
CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Although the Illinois Boxing commission is holding a session today to investigate the "diving" charges of mysterious Dan Daly, C. Arthur Shires is passing up the party completely to fight Tony Faeth in St. Paul.

By continuing his boxing tour, the White Sox first baseman is flaunting the authority of the National Boxing association which has suspended him in thirty-two states.

Under the direction of Gen. John V. Clinin, chairman, the Illinois ring commission will act on Daly's charge that he was threatened with gang violence here before his bout with Shires if he failed to "take a dive" to the canvas.

Buckeye Loop Cagers Start Race Jan. 11

Relative Strength of Six Teams Remains Doubtful.

The basketball title race in the Buckeye conference will get under way Saturday night, Jan. 11, with all six teams meeting conference opponents Wittenberg plays Miami at Oxford, while Cincinnati journeys to Granville to battle Denison and Ohio Wesleyan heads for Athens to seek revenge for the gridiron defeat handed it by Ohio university in that same city last October.

With the start of the conference season so near at hand, the relative strength of the six teams still remains doubtful. Cincinnati will start the season as a favorite on form, Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio university having failed as yet to show the brilliance many of their followers had hoped for. Miami, Denison, and Wittenberg are certain to be strong with the latter giving indications of being a real trouble maker.

A survey of championships won during 1929 shows how close and well balanced competition in the Buckeye conference has become. No one member has been able to win two clear-cut major sports titles during the year just closed. Title races in two of the four major sports resulted in ties.

Ohio Wesleyan and Cincinnati tied for the basketball championship. Miami tied with Cincinnati for the baseball title and won the track championship. Ohio university walked off with football honors. The only minor sports championships won in cross country by Miami.

Three players who have won all-state honors in high school are included in the group of 30 men to which the freshman basketball squad at Denison has been cut. George Louys, Stryker, guard; Andrew Hendricks, Dayton, forward; and Harold Broad, Des Moines, Iowa, forward, are the all-state scholastic stars.

ARCHIE BELL DEFEATS HUAT

By International News Service.
NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The clever left hand of Archie Bell today had shattered whatever dreams Eugene Huat had of becoming the king-pin of the bantams.

Some 2,000 fans looked on last night as the Brooklyn boy smashed and hammered the little Frenchman in nine of the ten rounds of their bout at St. Nicholas arena, to win a easy decision.

Hunt looked good only in the fourth session.

EAST PALESTINE — By reason of its location in the heart of one of the greatest industrial sections of the United States, East Palestine offers the advantages of small town residence in a district teeming with industry. This district, which covers part of eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania, is frequently referred to as the "Ruhr" of America.

Close to Lake Erie, affording cheap water transportation, crossed by the great trunk line railroads, rich in natural resources of coal, clay and oil shales, this section is the center of iron and steel production and leads in the manufacture of clay products.

Here are Pittsburgh, Youngstown, Cleveland, Canton, Massillon, Wheeling, Steubenville, East Liverpool, Akron and other nearby towns, all noted for steel and its allied products, clay products and rubber tires and in the heart of this great industrial section lies East Palestine.

It is located on the main line of the Pennsylvania system from Cleveland to Pittsburgh and the east. Eighty miles east of Cleveland and fifty miles west of Pittsburgh, sixteen miles north of the Ohio river, and on the main line of the Pennsylvania from Pittsburgh to Chicago and the west, and within five hundred miles of half the population of the United States.

In addition to excellent railroad facilities, bus lines run to East Liverpool, Youngstown, Beaver Falls, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and the west.

Thirty five railroad and trucking coal mines are within accessible distance from the city, two sources of gas supply, two power lines and the city power plant.

There is an abundant labor supply because of closeness to large cities, and practically 95 per cent of it is native American. Such foreign labor as there is, is of an unusually high grade. Excellent city water is supplied from artesian wells.

East Palestine is surrounded by one of the most fertile agricultural regions in eastern Ohio and is noted for its dairy and orchard products.

The principal undeveloped raw materials are coal, fire clay and oil shales in abundance. The present industries produce china ware, automobile tires, electrical refractories, steel storage tanks, wood ventilators, furniture, preserves and food products, electrical wiring devices, fire proofing brick and clay.

Two banks and one building and loan association operate here, as well as three grade schools and a splendid high school, seven churches, sanitary sewer system, paved streets, low rents and living costs, good fire protection, all fraternal organizations and a fine moral atmosphere. The population is 6,000.
